ISMPP is providing the following information concerning the use of the CMPP mark in advertising and business materials, such as business cards, stationery and/or letterhead, email signatures, brochures, Internet websites, or signs.

The CMPP mark may be included on a medical publication professional's advertising and business materials with the name of the certificant and a reference to the professional services performed by the certificant (eg, medical editor, medical writer, program director, scientific services). If possible, the mark should be accompanied by the appropriate trademark symbol, ® or ™, which are indicated with each mark in the list above. The CMPP certification marks may not be used to indicate that the certificant's employer, or any company or organization, is certified by ISMPP.
